The Toast

Will there be a champagne toast for your guests, or will they be toasting with what they've got? _____

Traditionally, the best man starts a toast, followed by the maid of honor, to be finished by the fathers of the bride & groom. With a three-hour reception, don't feel obligated to have so many 'toasters' that it would rob time from the open dance floor.

♥ Marriage Celebration Dance – Yes_____ No_____

This dance is a must to honor the longer lasting marriages of those who are attending your party. Every married couple is invited to the dance floor and is met by a series of three to four 'Oldies' love songs. As the music plays on, the younger couples are asked to step aside until only the longest lasting marriages remain. The eldest marriage is then honored with a standing ovation and their own special song.
